KRUGER TRIAL WILL OCCUPY THE WEEK

The Kruger trial brought out no novel features this morning as the prosecution was engaged in coupling up certain preliminaries. Willie James, an Indian trader, said he saw Kruger leave his cabin about 12:30 and had a gun with him. Jimmy Bob, another Indian, deposed that McWilliams was alive at his claim at 12:30, "the time when the whistle blew." Justice Morris testified that the pockets of the dead man were turned inside out as though they had been pulled out in a hurry. Dr. Crane was on the stand this afternoon and some of the former witnesses were recalled. The case is expected to occupy the remainder of the week.

OFFENSIVE NOT ENDED IS BELIEF

(By Associated Press.)
PARIS, June 6.—The Havas agency review says the battle situation is entirely satisfactory. The enemy is not likely to make attacks along Rheims and Oise for the present. Local attacks seem to indicate that the Germans have renounced their purpose to win a decision on the battle field selected by their commanders May 27th. The newspapers don't believe the offensive is ended. The Petit Parisien thinks Ludendorff is preparing a blow which he hopes to have prodigious results.

MARRIED TEACHERS WILL BE EMPLOYED

At a meeting of the board of trustees of the Tonopah school district held yesterday, the following resolutions were adopted as the policy of the board during the continuance of the war:

Whereas, previous boards of trustees of the Tonopah school district have had in effect a policy opposed to employing married women as teachers in the public schools; and Observers here believe General Foch will not be in a position to wrest the initiative from the enemy until the American strength becomes available in great forces. They don't anticipate any extensive counter offensive before fall.

WEST END ADVANCE AROUSES CURIOSITY

The sudden advance of West End to $1.02 in the course of three days started the street gossip with all kinds of reports, most of which centered in the statement that the United States supreme court had handed down a decision last Monday. Then, when this was exploded, another theory sprang was that the company had opened a huge body of high-grade in the Ohio workings. The West End officials denied knowledge of a strike. The best informed men on the inside agree that the advance is due to anticipation of a favorable decision and the further fact that the company is expected to declare a dividend.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE (Wednesday) June 5.—The Americans lost only one killed and a few wounded when a machine-gun battalion accounted for approximately 1000 Germans while holding a bridge at Chateau Thierry. Simultaneously the French annihilated 300 Germans on the southern bank of the Marne.

The Germans dominated the town from a hill. The Americans and French established positions in windows, doors and on roofs. Fierceness marked the fighting which raged several days. One officer said it was with difficulty that he prevented the Americans from crossing the river in the teeth of the enemy fire and assaulting the hill positions.

AMERICAN AVIATORS IN ITALY GREATLY ADMIRER BY PEOPLE

(By Associated Press.)
AMERICAN SEAPLANE TRAINING CAMP, Italy, June 6.—"The watchwords of this camp are efficiency, friendship, victory," remarked the American commander as he stood on the beach of the lake directing the afternoon's flying. "The efficiency is for our boys, the friendship for our friends, the Italians, and the victory is the destruction of the enemy," he explained.

If anything, the work in a training camp here is apt to be harder than in a similar camp at home. In addition to the usual routine of flying and studying, the students must learn French and Italian or both, to know the names of machine parts, technical terms, and to know how to find their way about.

The aviators have found that they must know a good many phrases and sentences if they would understand the Italian mechanics, motor drivers, and aviators. So the Americans already have begun studying Italian as a sideline to their many other studies.

of the Americans at Chateau Thierry demonstrated more than anything before the splendid initiative and enterprise of the American army. Nothing has aroused keener enthusiasm of the commander, according to the Daily Mail correspondent with the American army in France, who quotes an unnamed French general as saying the American spirit of enterprise at the critical moment served to maintain the morale of the French troops around Chateau Thierry.

The correspondent mentioned the steadiness and persistence of American machine-gun fire. Company after company of the enemy, marching four abreast, tried repeatedly to advance, but recoiled before the American fire. The streets were strewn with German dead and wounded.

The correspondent said: "Americans continue to arrive from the United States with regularity and in numbers sufficient to justify renewed confidence in the ultimate triumph of the entente."
